StatementOfWork

MutationCode LLC is a software design company, specializing in web and server-side development. We build applications that vary depending on the customers requests and design specifications. Our focus is e-commerce, creating a PCI compliant application that will provide our customers with a safe and creative platform for their business.

A big focus of MutationCode LLC is technical research and information. Our goal is to provide people with as much information as possible to succeed in their endeavors. We want people making informed technical decisions, and our video content has been tailored toward explaining the software development lifecycle.
